

SUMMARY: FILE REVIEW

Of the Death of a Youth in the Care of the Director in 2019

Circumstances of the Fatality

The review examined the case files of an Indigenous youth who died. The director was providing guardianship services to the youth at the time of the death.

Findings

The director frequently invited members from the youth's Indigenous community to attend planning circles to address the youth's needs and collaborated regularly with the youth's care team to support them; planning for the youth was impacted by their significant needs. The director completed referrals to community resources and arranged assessments to support the youth's transition to adult services.

Prior to the case review being finalized, the director developed a course for caregivers to support them in caring for youth.

Actions

No further actions were required to address the findings of the review.

The review was completed in March 2021.
