

Challenge Sixteen

There has been an explosion of Internet of Things (IoT) technology and devices. While this has brought us capabilities we could never have imagined, it also exponentially increases our threat attack surface. We are working full tilt to keep intruders from invading our organizational and personal Wi-Fi networks, each device is a doorway for bad actors to infect them. Here are some incredible facts and estimates based on the growth of IoT, please let us know which ones you think are true!
