

Community Gaming Grants

2020/21 Arts and Culture Sector Highlights

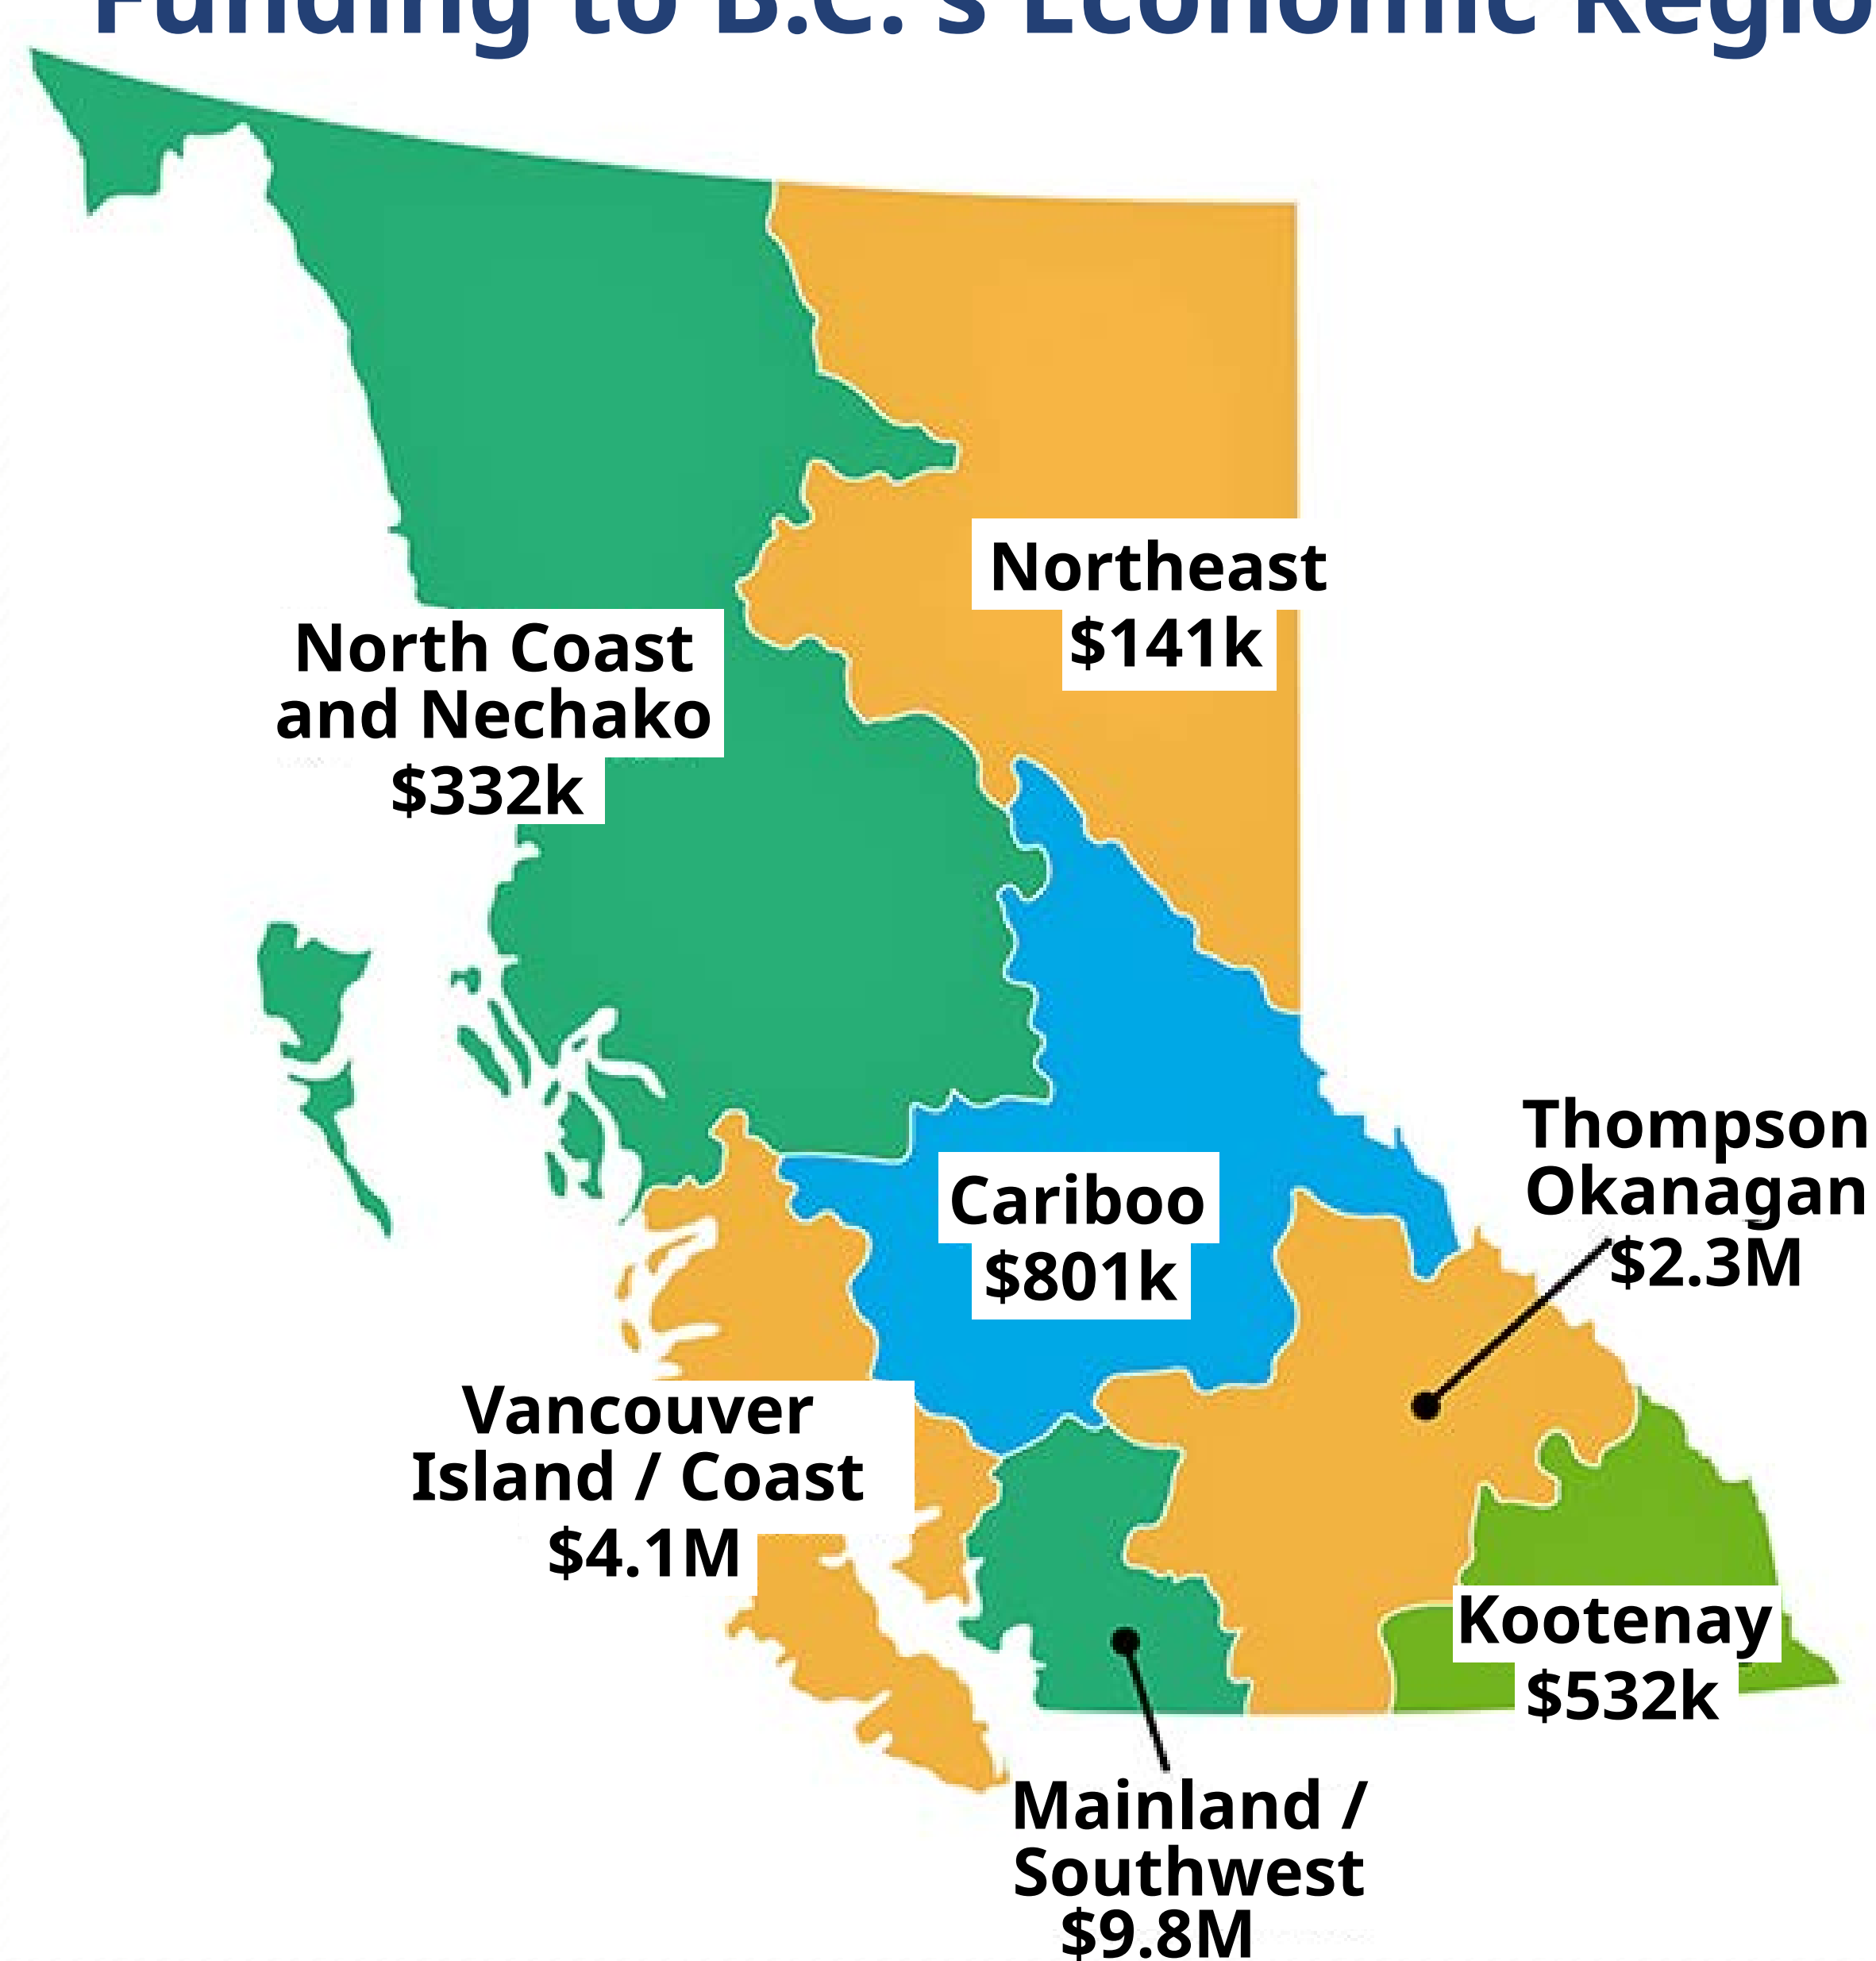

The Community Gaming Grants program distributes commercial gambling revenues to not-for-profit organizations throughout British Columbia. These grants support resilient, thriving and inclusive communities.

More than $18 million was awarded in 2020/21 to 736 arts and cultural organizations across British Columbia

Community Gaming Grants provide British Columbians with the opportunity to participate in a diverse range of arts and cultural experiences. Funding supports theatre, music, dance, film, video, literature, festivals, museums, cultural celebrations and other programming.

Breakdown of Arts and Culture Funding to B.C.'s Economic Regions

In 20/21...

89%

Of applicants were successful

41%

Of funding will be targeted to support children and youth

9%

Of funding will be targeted to support persons with disabilities

8%

Of funding will be targeted to support Indigenous British Columbians

Community Gaming Grant funding supports inclusive arts and cultural programming in every region of British Columbia. In 20/21, funding was directed to 117 communities across the province.

Uzume Taiko Drum Group Society, based in Richmond, received $12,000 in 2020/21 to assist with their outreach, school and public performance programs.

The Vancouver Latin American Cultural Centre received $12,500 in 2020/21 to support their Latin American community presentation and education program.

The Music on Main Society received $35,000 in 2020/21. This funding supported one-on-one performances in Vancouver, including one-on-one immersive projects between musician and audience member, designed in response to COVID-19. *Photography by Jan Gates.