

Minimizing Legal Liabilities

Did you know:

The Government of British Columbia can, at any one time, be a party to many open and ongoing civil litigation cases. Records play a vital role in all these cases. Without good record keeping justice can be delayed or denied; thereby resulting in the loss of valuable time and money.

Why?

All parties to a lawsuit have the right to require the other parties to identify and disclose all related documents. In the vast majority of cases, the parties will demand documents from each other. The document search and disclosure should be complete, accurate, and timely
