

Crohn's and Colitis Canada

GoHere Washroom Access Initiative

The GoHere program makes it possible for individuals living with Crohn's or ulcerative colitis to escape the social isolation these diseases can cause, making it easier for them to manage their symptoms and pursue more active, productive, and fulfilling lives. By partnering with multiple organizations, businesses and governments who offer accessible washrooms, Crohn's and Colitis Canada has created an app so users can plan before they leave the house and can use public washrooms, "no questions asked."
