1. Which dog provides a more valuable service?

Keno
(in "Avalanche Saviour")

the beagle
(in "Detective Dog")

I think Keno is more important because Keno's job is a matter of life & death. Keno has to have a good snout to be a search & rescue dog. He also has to be a good digger, and a fast one too! Keno also has to do his job fast! He also has to find the area where the person is under the snow. Keno has to be very careful when he is digging so he doesn't cut the person underneath the snow. Keno's job is more important.

I think Keno provides a more valuable service because he rescues people after they get stuck in snow and he has a really good smell. Keno rescued someone after six minutes of searching so he could get oxygen fast. His owner didn't hurt him, so he got excited to find people and toys. Keno is a fast digger also. His fast digging makes it easy to see a part of a person. That's why I think Keno has more value.

I think Avalanche Saviour is better than Detective Dog because Avalanche Saviour can save people and they were trained very well. Avalanche Saviour was trained when they were a puppy and they found lots of alive people. They are good to dig snow too because Avalanche Saviour has a dog. Avalanche Saviour is fast too.
