

USE OF FORCE INCIDENT REPORT

(Security Services Act - Report to Registrar)

THIS REPORT: Under section 21(a) of the Security Services Act and s. 7 of the Security Services Regulation, a security business must record details of any incident where a security worker engaged by the licensee used any type of force against another person. If the security worker is employed by a licensed security business, the business is responsible for maintaining this report. If the security worker is not employed by a licensed security business, it is a condition of the licence that a security worker record details of any incident the licensee is involved in where any type of force was used against another person. Incidents involving force include situations where a restraining device, firearm or other weapon was used, or a dog used by the licensee for security work attacks a person. You may use the use of force incident report to record these incidents. If you do not use this report, review the report so that you are aware of the information that needs to be collected.
