Hello Independent Panel,

I am sending along a few YouTube links that will be of interest to you regarding the benefits of old growth forests in BC.

2 stories were done when I worked at Shaw TV as a videographer.

I'm sure a visual submission might be welcome after so many written submissions.

One is about Ecotourism and Avatar Grove on Vancouver Island: The video showcases Port Renfrew which use to be a logging town but is now embracing ecotourism, a growing and important industry in BC.

This one is about the importance of old growth forests with regard to climate change and carbon capture

Wildwood Ecoforestry is a longer documentary 20 min that I did with the Ecoforestry Institute Society and highlights the importance of selective logging and biodiversity.

Please share with anyone you think would benefit from a visual presentation of some of the issues surrounding old growth forests.

Thank you for viewing these videos and for taking the necessary steps to protect the last of the old growth forests in BC and especially on Vancouver Island.

Warm regards,
Lorraine Scollan
