

Written Submission

Old Growth Strategic Review

The trees make us stay alive
The trees clean the air
Old growth helps the animals, it's their home
If we cut down all the trees, the animals won't have their home
Do you even think about our world or do you just think of money?
Do know how many animals are getting extinct every day?
It's 200 a day...
They need their home, and so do we, so please don't cut down old growth forests, there are not many left.
We all need them.

Rio Green, Age 8, Tofino, BC

The trees are our home, they help keep us alive, we should help keep them alive.

Animals need trees to live and survive.

Old growth forests give us clean air. They take carbon dioxide from the environment and make oxygen. They give us the air we breath.

Trees are animals' habitat. Birds nest in their branches. Owls, woodpeckers and squirrels make homes in their stems. Trees are their home just like buildings to us.

We all need Trees. PLEASE don't cut down old growth forests.

From: Ocea Green

Age 10

I live on Tla-o-qui-aht first nation Territory in Tofino B.C Canada

