NOTE: You must file your reply within 30 days of being served unless the court allows something different. If you do not file a reply to the Application About a Family Law Matter within the 30 days, the case can go ahead without you. This means that the other party may get a court order without your involvement and then enforce that order against you. If you do not reply, you will not be entitled to receive notice of any part of the case, including any conference, court appearance, hearing or trial and orders may be made against you without your knowledge.

What if I need more time to prepare my reply?

The rules allow you to apply to the court using the Application About a Case Management Order Without Notice or Attendance Form 11 to ask for permission to waive or modify any requirement under the rules. This may include delaying completing a registry requirement until after you file your reply, filing your reply before filing additional required forms, or allowing more time to file the reply.

If your case is filed in an early resolution registry, this form can only be filed when you have already met the early resolution requirements or you are exempt.

Filing the reply at the registry

After you've filled out your form, you must file it at the Provincial Court Registry where the existing Provincial Court case with the same parties is filed.

File the form:

- electronically using the FLA Online Forms Service
- in person at the court registry
- by mail
- by email, as referenced in Notice to the Profession and Public NP 28 Current Court Operations, or
- by fax filing using the Fax Filing Cover Page Form 52

There are no fees for filing Provincial Court family documents.

Be sure to bring all copies of the documents to the registry if you are filing in person.

The registry clerk will review your package to make sure it's complete before filing it. They'll give you a copy for your records.

The court registry will provide a copy of your reply to the other party along with any documents filed with the reply.

Completing any additional requirements

If you are filing in a family justice registry or parenting education program registry, you must meet additional requirements before scheduling a family management conference.

Are you filing in a family justice registry? If so, you must complete a needs assessment through the Justice Access Centre and complete an online parenting education program (Parenting After Separation). Before you can schedule your family management conference, you must file your certificate of completion from the program and a Referral Request Form 21. Ask your family justice counsellor to help you with this form, there is a portion they need to complete too.

Are you filing in a parenting education program registry? If so, you must complete an online parenting education program (Parenting After Separation). Before you can schedule your family management conference, you must file your certificate of completion for the program.

To learn more about meeting these requirements, contact the Justice Access Centre in person or by phone.

For more information about their services, including how to reach them, go to www.gov.bc.ca/family-justice-services-division.

Access the Parenting After Separation courses at www.gov.bc.ca/ParentingAfterSeparation

Scheduling a Family Management Conference

The family management conference is usually your first appearance before the court on your family law matter.

You can schedule the family management conference by:

- filing proof you have met any additional requirements described in the previous section, as applicable; and
- following the scheduling instructions provided by the court registry.

Attending the Family Management Conference

Family management conferences are being conducted by telephone, audioconference or videoconference. Do not attend the courthouse in person.

At the family management conference, the judge:

- assists the parties to identify the issues to be resolved
- explores options to resolve the issues
- can make case management orders or directions to make sure your case is ready for the next step
- can make interim (temporary) orders about your family law matters
- can make an order by consent of the parties
- can make an order without a party, if a party does not show up or file a reply

Can I get help in another language?

Free spoken-language interpreters for people who do not speak English and visual language interpreters for people who are deaf or hard of hearing are available for all family law court appearances.

It's important to let court registry staff know as soon as possible that you need an interpreter. If they can't arrange an interpreter in time, the judge may have to re-schedule your case.

The Family Justice Centre and Justice Access Centre staff can arrange a free interpreter for meetings with a Family Justice Counsellor or their other services.

For most things that go on outside the courtroom, you'll need to find your own interpreter. Some people ask a friend or family member. Others hire a professional interpreter.
