Family law:

The Provincial Court Family Rules set out the steps that you must take and the forms you must complete in a family law case. These rules apply to cases in Provincial Court about matters under the Family Law Act and the Family Maintenance Enforcement Act.

You can find the Rules and Acts on the BC Laws website at www.bclaws.gov.bc.ca.

Preparing an Application for Case Management Order Without Notice or Attendance Form 11

Complete this form if you need a case management order that can be made without notice or attendance at a court appearance.

Usually, an application for an order must be made with notice to all other parties so that they can decide if they want to participate in the application. There are circumstances when the court may make an order without notice and without you having to attend a court appearance, such as when you are asking for an order to help you serve the other party with documents or you need a court order about how you may attend court or about filing a document.

The case management orders that can be requested without notice and without attendance at a court appearance are listed in Part 3 of this form and under Rule 62 and Rule 65.

When you make an application without notice or attendance, it is up to the judge to decide if the order can be made without notice or attendance at a court appearance. After reviewing your application, if the judge thinks notice to another party or your attendance in court is needed, the registry staff will let you know. Usually, the order can be made without having a court appearance.

To apply for these case management orders if they are by consent or you want a court appearance, you can instead make your application using the Application for Case Management Order Form 10.

For all other case management orders, you must apply using the Application for Case Management Order Form 10. The case management orders a judge may make are listed in Part 4 of Form 10 and under Rule 62.

NOTE: You will not have to fill out every page of this form. Depending on the case management order that you need, you must complete between 2 to 6 pages.

Filling out the form and preparing to file it

Make sure you follow the instructions in the form and include all the required information. You don't need to use any special wording. Try to be clear and concise.

If you complete the form by hand, be sure it's readable.

How do I prepare the form for filing?

- collect the form and schedule(s) you completed
- if you are applying to recognize an extraprovincial order, collect the certified copy of the original order
- print or make copies of all documents: one set for you, one set for the court, and one set for each other party
- staple or secure each package of documents together

Filing the application at the registry

After you've filled out your form, you must file it at the Provincial Court Registry:

- where the existing Provincial Court case with the same parties is filed (you already have a court file number)
- nearest to where the child lives most of the time if the case involves a child-related issue, or
- nearest to where you live if the case does not involve a child-related issue

File the form:

- electronically using the FLA Online Forms Service
- in person at the court registry
- by mail
- by email, as referenced in Notice to the Profession and Public NP 28 Current Court Operations, or
- by fax filing using the Fax Filing Cover Page Form 52

There are no fees for filing Provincial Court family documents.

Be sure to bring all copies of the documents to the registry if you are filing in person.

The registry clerk will review your package to make sure it's complete before filing it. You'll be given a copy for your records along with a copy for the other party.

Judge review of application

A judge can make decisions based only on the information presented by the parties. In addition to your application, you can provide evidence including any additional affidavit(s).

Please ensure you have provided full responses to all parts of the form that apply to you.

A judge reviewing an application for a case management order without notice or attendance may do any of the following:

- approve and sign the order without the need for you to come to court
- ask you to provide more information or evidence in writing or by coming to court to give that information
- require that notice be given to any other parties
- reject the application with an explanation

Depending on what you are requesting on your application, it may take the judge a few days to review your application. The registry staff will let you know when you can expect to hear from them.

Serving the order and application

If the judge grants your order, you must serve a copy of the order on each other party.

The order can be served by ordinary service to the address of service for each party. Their address for service is the address they have provided to the court.

Note: If the application was made to allow service of a document using an alternative method of service, the order can be served along with the document you were asking to serve using the method of service ordered by the judge.

A party who does not have an address for service must be served by personal service. An adult (at least 19 years old) who is not a party must hand-deliver the documents to the party to be served. A party may serve a person who is not a party.

See the guidebook if you need more information about serving the order.

You may need to prove service of the documents took place. The person serving the documents must complete a Certificate of Service Form 7 to prove service of the document. You must attach a copy of the documents to the Certificate of Service. Remember to make a copy before the documents are served.
